CELEBRATE NATIONAL DAY (FEBRUARY):

TODAY: Everyone has a story and on March 14th, National Write Your Story Day challenges you to tell your story in written form.

You may think to yourself, "There's nothing in my life to tell." It will surprise you once you put pen to paper, or fingers to keyboard and the words start filling the pages. Words have a way of triggering memories. They form a moment in time, and before you know it, there's a story flowing from your fingertips. Even if you never share your tale, it can be an essence of who you are and where you've been.

Trips down memory lane or recreating the moment when a spark of inspiration occurred, are more intriguing than you know. Today, they fill blogs, inspire novels and entire television series. More importantly, they are treasures to family and loved ones.

The observance encourages us to start telling our personal stories today. There's a story worth recounting in there somewhere!

Thank you.

Remember...WE ARE WAPPINGERS !!
