

Mr. Seipp's math classes for the next two weeks (the weeks of March 16th and March 23rd)

Hello everyone, I've received a few emails regarding stuff I put up on Google Classroom this past weekend. I'm writing this just to make sure that you are all aware that anything I put up on Google Classroom over the next two weeks (videos, worksheets, and quizzes) is for your benefit and if you complete the assignments, you will receive extra credit.

Also please know that any new material that is posted on Google Classroom over the next 10 days will be covered again in class when classes resume. I encourage you to watch all the videos, attempt all the worksheets, look over the solutions to those worksheets, and give it your best on any online quiz posted. But understand that if you don't do well on any online quiz, it will not hurt your average. If you do well on any online quiz, it will definitely help your average!

Just as a reminder, our Google Classroom codes are as follows:

Algebra: wv552x3

Precalculus: ldxnk3u

AP Calculus: vujqbn7

So please don't stress out about work I assign on Google Classroom over the next few weeks. I'm putting it up for your benefit. The review material will be very helpful in preparing you for the Final Exam. (AP Calc is taking the AP in early May, Algebra 1 is taking a Regents in June, and Precalculus is taking a Final Exam in late May or early June).

Please email me with any questions you may have at robert.seipp@wcsdny.org Please understand that all of this is intended to help you be successful in math class, but at the same time, I understand that it's not that easy to learn this stuff without my amazing live teaching!!! Yes, I'm still a funny guy!!!

Be safe, be healthy, and I look forward to seeing everyone back at school soon.

Mr. Seipp
